

I need a simple PWA that can be used as a "proof of concept" only.

This means, I just need it to look like the real thing to my prospect, but in the background it can actually be built in the cheapest, easiest and quickest way possible.

I have already designed how all pages should look. Simply copy the page designs provided in this brief.

None of the data captured needs to be permanently stored anywhere (no backend infrastructure required).

The push notification mentioned in this brief is a screen popup only (no push notification feature setup required).

For this "proof-of-concept" build, we do NOT actually need you to setup any notifications at all.

When they tap "ALLOW" button it simply brings them to the next slide (as a simulation of what the notifications would look like in the real application).

Their voice recording should be transcribed into text using Whisper AI or equivalent.

We only need to capture the transcribed text (not the audio file).

When they tap the "RECORD" button it should display a popup voice recorder (pause, stop, play, record)

When they have finished recording 1, it should bring them directly to "DAY 2" (next page).

Then after recording 2, it should bring them directly to "DAY 3" (next page).

This is a sped-up way of getting the prospect to record 3 days of highlights during the meeting.

- Speak about what made today great.
- We recommend about 30-60 seconds.
- No human will hear what you record.
- When you're ready, simply tap the record button below to start.
